

Goal:

Keeping in mind academic welfare and holistic development of the students' various activities are organized under students' forum of the different departments of the College. Ram Krishna College believes in developing and continuing such forums which can boost up the morale, productivity and creativity of students in various disciplines such as socio-political, economic, linguistical and cultural.

Context:

Ram Krishna College always endeavours to provide such opportunities and platforms to its students through which they can learn different skills related to their subjects and develop interdisciplinary approach. Activities covered under students' Forum are of varied nature from psycho-therapy to mental health awareness programmes, debates on different political issues like foreign policies, students' seminar on literary topics, discussion on socio-cultural issues, Business plan, Symposium on Budget, Workshops on skill development in terms of career. The Programmes designed by different departments under Students' Forum to enrich the perspectives of students in terms of their subjects and to make them learn practical aspects as well. For instance, Department of Economics under "Eco-Voice" organized one month workshop on "Communicative Skill" in which students are not only given training of communication but also, they are taught specific vocabulary of economics.

Practices:

The program organized by Science, Arts and Commerce faculty under Students' Forum were a means to provide opportunity to students belonging to respective fields to gain something specific in pursuit of their future goal and aspirations and at the same they can be inter-disciplinary. Following are the details of different department's Forum:

1. Eco-Voice (Economics)
2. Voice of Commerce (Commerce)
3. Republica (Political Science)

5. Virasat (History)

7. Laureates (English)

8. Zoo Avengers (Zoology)

Evidence of Success:

Students in large number took interest in this practice. They regularly participated in the workshop, seminar, debates, essay writing, skill development programmes etc organized by these forums.

Semi-monthly Meeting

Goal:

Keeping in mind academic welfare of students and faculty members, Ram Krishna College started concept of in-house Symposia programme where after every fifteen days on regular basis on different topic different departments' faculty members are given an opportunity to discuss the topics which offer challenge to the presenters and demand exhaustive research and study. The aim of the College is to encourage and enhance the teaching-learning practices.

Context:

Ram Krishan College always endeavours to launch such practices which can upgrade and enrich its faculty members in terms of learning and research. Faculty members selected those topics which are undoubtedly from their subjects but at the same time approach was inter-disciplinary. For example, "Multi-culturalism " was chosen as the topic of discourse from Political-Science Department which included literary, socio-cultural, education and economic perspectives, therefore it encompassed in its territory wide range of opportunity . However, in pursuit of its success and vision, it demanded extra inputs from the faculty members apart from their teaching-learning routine, research publications etc. The visionary attempt of the College is fruitful for current and future faculty members. It provides an opportunity and platform to the faculty members to learn and impart their knowledge in the gatherings of intellectuals and further same knowledge is to be employed to build the capacity of young minds.

Practices:

Ram Krishna College scheduled discourses on different topics from the departments of Arts, Science and Commerce. Apart from faculty members research scholars are also allowed to be part of the forum as audience. This platform is an attempt and a step towards sustenance of the goal of Higher Education in terms of maintenance of quality teaching and services. The aim of the programme was to fulfil the need of symposia on regular basis.

Evidence of Success:

Although presence of the faculty members is not mandatory still it is always at its maximum. The most interesting section of the “Semi- Monthly Meeting” is the discussion in which everyone is given space to put forth his/her view point. Research scholars and teachers do brain-storming on chosen topics which bring into being new perspectives and paves path for new researches.
